

Health Benefits

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW:

Healthcare reform may have been delayed for another year and organizations do not want to navigate it on their own. According to the advisory and research firm Everest Group, the global benefits administration outsourcing market is growing at a rate of 13 percent this year, and has crossed the $6.1 billion mark. According to Everest, “The recent healthcare reform in the United States and the shift from defined benefits to defined contribution has forced buyers to take a relook at their benefits strategy. With consumerization emerging in the benefits space, health insurance exchanges, consumer-driven health plans, consulting and participant advisory services, technology enhancements, decision support tools, and improved communication services will play a pivotal role in redefining this market.
